Richards, Emilie, 1948-. Wedding ring. Waterville, ME : Thorndike Press, 2004.

Tessa MacCrae feels as if she's facing a prison sentence when she reluctantly agrees to spend the summer helping her mother and grandmother clean out and repair the old family home in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley. She is prepared for inevitable anger and tension-the only emotional bonds they've ever shared. But with the passing weeks, each of their lives begins to change. For the first time, Tessa can look past the years of resentment and regret and see her mother and grandmother for the flawed but courageous women they are. Through days of hard work, simple living, and the determination to repair the torn fabric of their own lives, Tessa, Nancy and Helen will discover that what was lost can be found again-if they look deeply into their hearts.
